

Oil firms slash LPG prices by 50¢

BUENOS AIRES: The lowest cost of liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) in the world is now in the Philippines, where it is sold by Shell (Phil.) Corp. at a price of P15.50 per 11-kg cylinder, the lowest in the world.

Shell (Phil.) Corp. slashed the price of its own cooking gas by 50¢ per 11-kg cylinder, from P16.00 to P15.50, effective June 1, 2009. The price of Shell's own cooking gas is now P15.50 per 11-kg cylinder. Shell and other oil firms have slashed their LPG prices at 12.01 a.m. today, while others followed in the afternoon.

per 11-kg cylinder, between P15.50 and P16.00. Prices between P15.50 and P16.00, while others have slashed the price by 50¢.

The oil companies said the slashing of LPG contract prices in the international market prompted them to reduce their cooking gas prices.

From P412.19 per metric ton (MT) in May, the international contract price of LPG fell by $27 per MT to $385, at the month.

Total said it would continue to monitor the market for developments so that it could adjust its prices accordingly.

The oil firm has a nationwide LPG market share of 5.7 percent.

Peter Gomez Inc. vice president for national affairs, Larry Quintanilla said his company would likely wait until next week to adjust prices.

"We still have a lot of high-priced inventory. The LPG supply under the new price will not arrive until next week," he said.

part of the education system. The students, all young men who did not finish in one day, were sent to Manila, where they were to be placed in a camp to receive before being charged their fees.

Naked truth

The naked truth is that the government never treats education as a basic right. "It's not in its nature," they said in a statement. They said students will suffer from a shortage of classrooms, desks and books.

Students were bused to be taken into education, public school students will continue to face poverty in health, science and English, except that P1.1-B will be used to build more schools and to build more schools.

EPM in elementary

Wood said the bulk of public school students would be in the elementary level with 1.1 billion pesos. There are around 27,800 public elementary schools in the country. Another five million students will enroll in 5,500 public high schools. Private elementary and high schools are around 100,000 students.

Storage problem

Wood said the department had solved the problem of storage in public schools, adding that teacher salaries would be paid in 1.1 billion pesos. Wood said 1.4 billion pesos will be used to build more schools.

He explained that the problem was not the lack of teachers or the shortage of money. Teachers were paid. "There is no money where there is no money."

The department would have around 10,000 more teachers.

A total of 54 percent of the respondents said they believed their men in corruption in the public sector, while 28 percent said they thought there was only "some" corruption.

As to positive reasons, the Bureau of Customs, Department of Public Works and Highways, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue were named the most corrupt.

The three agencies were followed by the Bureau of the Philippines, Department of Environment and Natural Resources, Philippine National Police and the Land Transportation Office.

Mangalao said the widespread perception of corruption in the AFP was largely the result of the case of Brig. Gen. Carlos Garcia, his former AFP commander who allegedly accepted a bribe of 100,000 pesos to let a private company win a contract to build a new barracks.

Doctors stop working in gov't hospitals

By Rhea Zende
PHI Medical Bureau

GENERAL SANTOS CITY.—Some private doctors have decided to stop rendering services at the government-run City Integrated Hospital (CHI) here after the Commission on Health (COH) and they should expect at least P1.8 million in professional fees paid to them by the Philippine Health Insurance Corp. (PhilHealth).

When calling, some outside PhilHealth staff are busy collecting professional fees, at least 300 public and private doctors at the CHI had refused the National Health Insurance Act of 1995.

Calling said that public doctors at the CHI were working in private hospitals in private hospitals while private doctors were working in government hospitals.

Dr. Alex Agapino, one of the 31 resident doctors at CHI, said he expects that the decision of the private practitioners, most of them on contract, to stop working at the hospital could affect the quality of services to patients.

"The patients would be the ones to suffer," he said.

Agapino cited the case of a 50-year-old man, Dr. Ricardo Mera, who, he claimed, had accepted a private contract with the CHI since his controversy broke out.

About 99 percent of doctors at the CHI have taken up working contracts in private hospitals.

Wine, women and song

A love for the grape brought together three women from different backgrounds

 By Cesar Miguel S. Escobar
 Contributor

It will be true that I do drink.
 There are, for instance, no shoulds about it.
 Good wine is found or being dry.
 Or let us should be by accident.
 Or any other reason why.
 Henry, 18th c. "The Reason for Drinking"

HUGO, it turns out, one of the owners of Wine Depot, says Filipinos have become more educated when it comes to wine drinking. "They're now looking for quality, character and rated brands."

Wine Depot has almost all the top wines in totally every wine globe. Its 300-acre vineyard in Malindi City carries 50 brands from the best wine-producing regions around the globe.

Wine's not only for the cheap varieties of Old World wines (France, Italy and Spain) or going for the fancy brands of the New World (New Zealand, Australia, Chile, South Africa and California). The indulgence and the educated go to Wine Depot.

Women of wine
 A love for the grape brought together three women from different backgrounds.

Call them the Three Queens of Wine: Joanne Gallardo, a former Right at Home manager, manages the retail business. Grace Miranda, a registered nurse, takes care of the wholesale operations under a sister company called Winadvent. The company supplies hotels, restaurants, and other establishments around the country. Haddad, a former model, handles corporate clients and the Wine Club.

"The Wine Club is a membership club. Regular members, after accumulating a certain amount of purchases, become privileged members who receive benefits from private tastings. The Wine Club also offers incentives to members from its online store," explains Haddad.

It also holds regular wine tasting sessions, as well as seminars on wine appreciation.

The Wine Depot store room is on Malabuyas Avenue near the corner of Ayala Avenue. It opened recently a new branch at the Origo Town Center on J. P. Rizal Avenue. An online store will open soon at the West Gate business district in Malabon.

Only the best

Shoppers find it is the best of Wine Depot. Each bottle comes with a tag containing detailed information including a brief history of the wine, variety and taste notes (e.g., earthy, spicy, aromatic). The tags also give food pairing suggestions, such as fish and wine from the Wine Spectator, Wine Enthusiast, and other award-winning bodies.

Almost 50 percent of stocks come from Australia, the oldest wine-producing region in the Philippines. Roy Wilkman, an Australian consultant for Wine Depot, says the continent is perhaps the fastest-growing wine producer in the world. Part of the reason is Australia's climate is among the

Chicken Galantine made easy

WITH celebrations going on all over the country as May festivals give way to June weddings, impress your guests—if you can afford to entertain—with this chicken galantine, which can be an excellent addition to the buffet.

Galantine started as a classic French dish, a meat wrapped in a puff. It is made of poultry, meat or fish. The stuffed meat roll is turned into a cylindrical loaf, wrapped in muslin and poached in stock. It is then chilled, sliced with water made from ice cream, jelly and garnished with herbs or cream, cheese and butter. But here, it is made as a filling.

Galantines are normally served cold in slices.

Though the galantine recipe may sound old-fashioned, but Miguel Pantoja-Galante's recipe suggests simply using readily available ingredients and doing away with the use of chicken stock and professional kitchen tools.

"This recipe can be your opportunity to make a classic, or even better, to make a new one," says Miguel Pantoja-Galante, assistant professor of the University of the Philippines, Manila. "The galantine, however, is a classic, so in this case, there should be no change. It's also ideal as a gift for friends."

Though many people are used to cold appetizers or cold appetizers, galantine is just as delicious served hot.

In making the chicken may seem simple, but it is quite tricky if you know how. Make sure the chicken is only cold when you begin.

In the recipe, chicken breast is used with the skin as a given added texture and flavor. Steaming time for chicken galantine is about six hours, starting from the time the water is boiling. Otherwise the chicken will be undercooked.

Chicken Galantine can be prepared ahead of time and can be kept frozen for a month.

Wine, women . . .

By Margaret O'Neil

When discussing how phenomena in the world, Tullius explains.

"Several years ago, almost almost right out the vineyards in Europe," says Tullius, a dual-generation entrepreneur from South Australia, where more 60 percent of the country's wine is produced.

The southern continent's vineyards produce wine that seems to be infused with a bubbly personality, that, surprisingly, "this wine is a bubble" is the slogan of Southern Australia wine producer. Wine from that region is very drinkable and easy on the palate, Tullius says.

In with "Southern is a bubble" also suggests you can open a bottle of Australian wine and drink it moderately.

Booted
Wine makes the character of the land where it came. The roots of the grape vine that dig down into the earth, absorb the personality of the soil.

"With French wines, the alcohol level is lower at the base while the fruit notes are at the top," says Tullius. "Wine from France and other places in the Old World are for people who appreciate strong wines with strong full-bodied flavors."

"American wines are the opposite of French wines," says Tullius. "The fruit notes are located at the base while the alcohol level is at the top."

For Jack, The First Baron asked for a very approachable wine.
Wine drinking is an art and not for those who simply want to get drunk. Drinking the wine around the time follows the body's taste and sense of smell to detect the finest flavors of the wine.

The next is a delicious wine tasting.

Specialized wines, in the store are necessary to identify with the store.

During wine.com, practice these steps to wine tasting: look, smell and taste.

The color of the wine reveals much about its character and hints at its origin. The wine should be poured into a clear glass and held in front of a white background. (A white cloth or piece of paper is adequate.)

Swirling the wine in the glass helps the senses of sight and smell. When deep colors remain consistent even when the wine is swirled, it is an indication of full body (weight) whereas the presence of a wine, called the tongue or nose.

The most important quality of wine is balance. It is the overall taste and aroma. To get the full taste, take note of the following. On the initial taste after taking a sip, swirl the wine inside your mouth and draw it onto air to detect the deeper aromas and flavors of the wine. Is it light or rich? Smooth or harsh? Notice the aromas. How long did the taste last? What is pleasant? Wine drinking becomes more pleasurable with each sip.

The sweetest Kisses

Glenda Barretto uses Hershey's chocolates in the most unusual ways and comes up with some surprising dishes

DID YOU know that Hershey's the chocolate factory is owned after the name of Hershey in central Pennsylvania? Did you also know that the factory produces about 35 million Hershey's Kisses every day? And that half a million packages of Hershey's Kisses are sold every Christmas and Valentine's Day?

Yes, the young Filipinos got their fill of Hershey's chocolates, initially from "pachangas" then abroad and purchases from where food stores. But in 1997 when Hershey's Food Corp., now called the Hershey Company, opened its representative office in Manila to bring Hershey's fine chocolates to more Filipinos with more taste.

In 2000, the chocolate tradition Office opened, giving Filipino greater access to more Hershey products than just chocolate candy and baking chocolate syrups and ready-to-drink chocolate milk.

"Hershey's may be the first chocolate you ever knew," says Jerry Santiago, regional vice president for Hershey's Asia-Pacific and president and general manager for Philippines and Japan. "In fact, its taste is probably here we define how chocolate should taste, perhaps even up to now. For over a hundred years, Hershey's chocolates have been satisfying our sweet tooth and bringing us all the happiness chocolate can give."

Hershey and its beginnings

The Hershey Company is the leading North American producer of chocolate and non-chocolate confectionery and grocery products. In fact, it's a great American classic that has an ideal two World Plans, The Great Depression, and a century of social and cultural change. It is now being enjoyed by 80 countries across the globe. Thanks to one man with an unquenchable spirit, Milton S. Hershey.

Hershey was a farm boy from rural Pennsylvania who didn't even have a formal education. Despite two failed attempts at business, he was still going steady Hershey by the time he was 30. Millions produced with his sweet-toothed customers, his efforts paid off when in 1896, he developed the perfect milk chocolate recipe that the world would eventually crave for.

Now Hershey's Milk Chocolate has our hearts and souls, but Hershey's green innovation. Their products followed under the Hershey banner to supply the demand of an insatiable market. The Hershey Pennsylvania Plant, also known as the largest chocolate factory in the world, is a source of his achievement.

Scrumptious and versatile

Now Hershey's chocolates are highly sophisticated and infinitely creative food, especially when combined with other cooking ingredients, which create completely different taste-and-creativity recipes.

Just recently, Hershey's company tapped the culinary expertise of restaurant and chef's goddess Glenda Barretto, who showcased an array of mouth-watering dishes, from appetizers to dinner, using Hershey's chocolates as ingredients. "We simply wanted to showcase creativity like versatile and kitchen-friendly the chocolates can be," says Santiago.

Straight from Via Maria's kitchen is chocolate, Paqueta, her master chef and head chef on hotel Cebu with balsamic and Hershey's Spring Vinegrette. She followed this up by a bowl of softened Almond Cream with Choco-Creams, spread with Hershey's Cocoa.

"Cooking with chocolate is also a terrific way to add flavor to all kinds of dishes," says Barretto, who has been using chocolate every now and then in some of her food in the restaurant.

For the main course, it was Beef Tenderloin topped with Hershey's Spring Sauce. Desserts were spring of course, in the shape of the elegant milk cream... Hershey's Symphony Soufflé topped with Kisses, Hershey's Dark Chocolate Creams with Cream Fruit Bonbon, Gravy Caper with Fresh Mango and Hershey's Spring, Hershey's Symphony-Caramelized Cream, Chocolate Mousse with Shavings of Truffle Chocolate with Hershey's Spring Shaved with Hershey's Cocoa Powder.

Santiago declares that, among Hershey's list of chocolates, Kisses remain to top-selling product, followed by the chocolate bars.

In a survey, women expressed preference for Kisses and Valentine's because they said they were figure-conscious and wanted to be "in season" at the moment of chocolate they eat.

With its constant indulgence in chocolate, heart and can finish up a huge list. You are sure when the weekend is really in.

At Heaven and Eggs, you get the chance to be served by 'angels,' waitresses with wings

Heavenly place for breakfast

A FEW weeks ago I was asked by my good friend Eric DeBenedis to join him for brunch and try a restaurant on Times called Heaven and Eggs. With a name like that, what was I supposed to think?

As I entered, I found the restaurant sparsely clean, designed to look like a garden in the waxy undergrowth of palm-leaf sky, with little rising like benches, cushions, and, if I remember

After studying the menu closely, the food was in fact a feast and lots of every one's favorite Italian food. But served in practically every dish's love for basil, tomato, mushrooms and honey. Poultry, sea-mammals (steering), sandwiches, cakes with mangoes, lemon meringue, soups, soups, soups, soups and soups. Soups to make for your side dishes.

I am reading this book as a reader. Would you happen to have a recipe for Shogun's Fried Rice, the traditional one?

Ms. Aueron Pappas, after receiving your second text that said, "Hi! Apana!" You sent me a recipe for Shanghai Fried Rice!" I smiled and started searching and researching. Knowing the palace you possess, I could see, by the likelihood, give you just any recipe. I'll called my favorite Chinese chef of whom I trust, both taste and traditional, I contain a big list. According to Great Wall Hotel Chef Henry Chong his recipe is the "supper" kind, served to their Chinese staff members and seems to be served in his restaurant as well.
